-----Personal Background-----

Hailey is a woman with considerable passion for life and loyalty. She started out as Asst. Security Officer aboard the USS Endeavour, then moved into the Chief Helm position where she stayed for a majority of her time. Later, she was given the opportunity to be the Executive Officer. She displayed character and good judgement during this time. However, when the Capt - RAdm Cerywyn - disappeared without a trace, Hailey was thrown in to the Command position. A position she found fraught with decisions that can make or break a ship. During a critical mission, she was forced to self-destruct the Endeavour and feels personally responsible for RAdm Cerywyn's abduction. She has spent the last two years on Earth undergoing treatment for depression. Recently she was found fit for duty and reactivated.

-----Description-----

Hailey has your typical Polynesian look about her. She is slender, long flowing black hair that she typically keeps in a ponytail or bun and almond shaped brown eyes. She has a burn scar on her left wrist from the Endeavor incident and a tattoo for a panther on her right shoulder.

-----Family Details-----

She comes from a modest family - the only child of Ilene and Jeremy Konuha. Jeremy works as a UFP Scientist in Research and Development and Ilene works as a civilian assistant in the JAG Corp

-----Personality Traits-----

She's fierce, loyal and stubborn. Hailey can be reasoned with but if you falter, it could take awhile before she trusts your judgement again. There is only one person (aside from her parents) that Hailey truly admires and yearns to earn her respect and admiration - Adm Cerywyn.
